RE: Xerox Docucolor 242

To whom it may concern,

The Xerox Docucolor 242 has indeed proven to be quite the surprise. The speed of this copier is truly amazing. Where I once spent a great deal of time just waiting for jobs to rip and then print, I now find myself shocked to turn around and see that they have already printed. This has made colour copies much less of a production thus freeing up valuable time for me to pursue other projects.

We are also quite impressed with the improvements in the quality of the copies over our last copier. The gloss papers were especially noted for having lines in them on our old machine, but not so now. This is indeed very pleasing to all the customers. The colours are excellent.

The heads up display is a great relief and makes the operation of the copier much simpler. The machine itself is very durable so I don't feel that I need to worry over whether or not it will break down in the middle of a large job. The scanning capability of this copier has proven to be exceptional.

We are delighted with the capabilities and quality of the Docucolor 242.

Yours truly,
